The Society of Song, Yuan, and Conquest Dynasty Studies appreciates the generous contributions of Frank Wang and

Laura Young, through the Wang Family Foundation. Through their support the Society has been able to make electronic copy of the initial volumes of the Sung Studies Newsletter and the Journal of Song Yuan Studies available in the public domain.

Please Note: Because this newsletter was converted to a text-searchable format rather than scanned as a series of graphics images of the pages, it is not identical to the originally published version. The formatting has been corrected to reflect the page breaks in the original newsletter. As a result, pages may end abruptly in the middle (or even beginning) of a line. Moreover, the initial scanning converted characters to their simplified form. They have been restored to the traditional form, but some errors may have been introduced in the process.

A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF WESTERN LANGUAGE SOURCES, 1971-1977, ON THE
FIVE DYNASTIES, LIAO, SUNG, HSI-HSIA, CHIN AND YUAN PERIODS

Michael C. McGrath
Princeton University

This bibliography contains, for the first time, in addition to references to materials relevant to the Sung dynasty, materials relevant to the Five Dynasties period, the Liao, the Hsi-Hsia, the Chin and the Yüan dynasties. At the same time, however, I have foregone including any references to Soviet scholarship since bibliographies from Leningrad and Moscow are being included in the Bulletin. I have tried mightily to be comprehensive in my search for these references. Informing me or the Editor of items not included will ensure that they are included later. One general reference work, which I did not include, but which is easily located and contains pertinent historical and topical entries, is the fifteenth edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica (1974). The following are abbreviations, which I have used in this bibliography.
